Isabel McKinney Visits Campus For First Time Since Retiring

Miss Isabel McKinney, former head of the English department at Eastern, recently visited the campus for the first time since her retirement in 1945.

One of the three new women's dormitories now under construction was named in honor of Miss McKinney. The other dormitories are also named for former faculty members, Miss Ellen Ford and Miss Annie Weller.

"I could hardly believe my ears" was the reply given by Miss McKinney when asked her reaction to having a dormitory named for her.

When asked how she happened to come to teach at Eastern, she explained that a friend, Mr. Thomas Briggs, who was an instructor at Eastern, had recommended her for the position. Mr. Briggs told her that "a year with Mr. Lord would be worth two years of graduate study."

Miss McKinney took her early college training at Stetson University and received the A. B. degree from the University of Chicago. She joined the faculty at Eastern in 1911.

In 1937 Miss McKinney completed her story of Eastern's first president, Livingston C. Lord. She was instrumental in founding the first departmental honorary fraternity on the campus, Sigma Tau Delta, and served as the first sponsor.

Miss McKinney wrote the words to Eastern's alma mater song and Mr. Frederick Koch, head of the music department from 1899 until 1938, wrote the music.

Dickersons Travel in Europe, Visit Thirteen Countries

Thirteen countries and 15,000 miles were covered by Dr. and Mrs. Earl S. Dickerson in their recent three-month tour of Europe. Dr. Dickerson is a professor of business education at Eastern. He is currently on sabbatical leave.

From the hills of Dover to the Swiss Alps, the Dickersons traveled by rail, water, car and coach—seeing such world-renowned places and things as the Peace Palace in the Hague, the University at Heidelberg, Amsterdam, and Bastogne, the city that bore the Battle of the Bulge.

Moving on to Austria, in Russian hands only 18 months ago, the Dickersons visited the beautiful city of Innsbruck, trade center of Southern Europe.

They then toured along the Mediterranean, tak-

Winter Quarter Enrollment

Calls for 11,888 teachers have been received by the Bureau of Teacher Placement at Eastern during 1957, according to Dr. William H. Zeigel, director.

An analysis of the requests indicates the greatest need to be in elementary education. Some 6,662 calls, more than 50 per cent of the total, were for teachers in elementary education. Next, in order of demand, were teachers of science, mathematics and physical education for women.

One hundred ninety-three of the 289 students graduating from Eastern in 1957 entered the teaching field.

ing in the Italian Riviera, Monaco, the French Riviera, then on to Paris and finally to Cherbourg to board the Queen Elizabeth and the homeward journey.

Keeping a constant eye on the economic status of the various European areas, Dr. Dickerson noted that people everywhere seemed, in general, well-fed, well-housed, and well-clothed. Large cities displayed an abundance of merchandise, including a substantial quantity of luxury items. "One might think he were in the United States by looking at the window displays and the people as they were dressed on the streets," said Dickerson.

The general economic stability was less pronounced in Italy, said Dickerson, and the French seemed somewhat bewildered and troubled. Their worried look, he feels, is possibly due to the failure to establish a firm government in 24 tries since 1945, and their trouble in North Africa.

Art, Music, Speech Get Modern Quarters

When construction of the Fine Arts Building gets underway early in 1958, Eastern will be building one of the nation's most modern plants for the teaching of art, music and speech.

That's the opinion of the department heads who contributed greatly to the planning of the building and who will share the $1,250,000 structure — Dr. Calvin Countryman of the art department; Dr. Leo J. Dvorak of the music department; and Dr. Glenn Ross of the speech department.

Contrasting Architectural Styles

The general design of the structure consists of two buildings which constitute wings joined by a glass enclosed gallery-foyer. The architectural styles of the two wings will present interesting contrasts, according to Dr. Countryman.

While the music-theatre wing will be of masonry construction with a minimum of windows, thus presenting a solid, block-like appearance, the wing housing classrooms and studios for art and speech is typical of the International Style of contemporary architecture so characteristic of the well-known architects Walter Gropius and Le Corbusier, said Dr. Countryman.

This style, he said, might be characterized by its feeling of lightness obtained through its construction of a steel skeleton with a skin of glass enclosing interior spaces.

To be constructed on the Seventh Street side of the campus proper between the temporary training school and the Home Management House, the building consists of two parts—a music-theatre wing and an art-speech wing.

Music-Theatre Wing

The music-theatre wing, with its main entrance on Seventh Street, is 120-foot square and contains a basement and two upper stories.

Located on the lower floor are music classrooms, some 35 practice cubicles for individual or ensemble use, a rehearsal room for choir and opera, a rehearsal room for dramatics, dressing rooms, and a laundry with dyeing facilities.

For the first time, said Dr. Dvorak, organ teaching will be afforded through two studios, one for electronic organ and one for pipe organ—both studios are on the lower floor, along with listening rooms containing hi-fi equipment.

"Little Theatre"

A "Little Theatre" will be the feature of the ground floor. Seating some 415 persons in the main auditorium and balcony, the theatre will have a large and fully equipped stage.

The stage area, including the wings, will be 50 feet by 30 feet, with a proscenium width of 40 feet. The main area will be trapped. Scenery will be rolled onto the stage in wagons or flown from a loft 36 feet high and covering the entire stage area. The curtain will open manually, either horizontally or vertically.

Provisions for flexible staging will make ready adaptation of facilities to theatre-in-the-round, according to Dr. Ross. For such productions, rapid removal of the first few rows of seats will provide a temporary stage. An arena situation will be created by seating part of the audience on the conventional stage and part in the auditorium.

All lights will be controlled from a panel in an elevated glass-enclosed booth at the rear of the theatre. This panel will be one of the most advanced features of the new theatre.

The control board will make possible maximum utilization of more than 60 stage lighting circuits. It will permit the operator to prepare in advance five different light setups, so that a multiple-set play may be lighted with accuracy and with minimum difficulty when the play is in progress.

A scene workshop, 64 feet by 18 feet, will be located off-stage left, with one-third of the area two stories high. The stage and workshop will connect directly with the basement, where the dressing rooms, with showers, will be located.

An orchestra pit, which may be covered when not in use, will be located in front of the stage. Opening off the foyer will be a ticket booth, coat room, and offices for the director and technical director.

The stage facilities, according to Dr. Dvorak, are sufficient to produce any opera or musical extravaganza.

Also located on the ground floor is a large band and orchestra room sufficient for rehearsals and workshops or conferences of from 150 to 200 persons.

The second floor will consist primarily of the theatre balcony, offices, and storage rooms.

Art-Speech Wing

From the south-of-center portion of the rear of the music-theatre wing, a gallery-foyer extends westward to the art-speech wing. This wing is three stories high, with the upper two stories extending out beyond the lower floor. The lower floor, glass-enclosed on three sides, is rectangular in shape and runs 144 feet north and south and is 36 feet wide.

Extending out over the lower story and completely glass enclosed, the upper two floors are 206 feet long and 48 feet wide.

Art facilities on the first floor include studios for ceramics, sculpture, and metal crafts. One feature of the planning, said Dr. Countryman, is access to an outdoor sculpture court where students may work on large pieces of sculpture.

The second floor houses two general crafts studios, one of which will be used for weaving. A large painting studio with an adjacent room for painting, storage, and frame making are located on the third floor. Also at this level are a large drawing and design room and two studios planned specifically for art teacher training.

In the music-theatre wing is a room seating 50 students which is designed for audio-visual instruction in art history and art appreciation.

Having separate studios for ceramics, sculpture, metals, weaving and general crafts will enable the art department to increase course offerings in these areas, according to Dr. Countryman. This will permit not only more opportunities for specializing, but more opportunities for broadening students' experiences, he said.

The gallery-foyer which runs through and joins both wings serve as an integrating force for the arts by providing facilities for display and exhibiting.

The general speech area will consist of classrooms, special purpose rooms, practice cubicles, and offices.

Three of the classrooms will be 24 feet by 30 feet, while one will be 24 feet by 25 feet. Ceilings will be composed of acoustical tile.

One special purpose room, 18 feet by 15 feet, will be soundproofed for recording and radio use. A glass-partitioned control room will be adjacent. A seminar-conference room, 18 feet by 12 feet, will serve both faculty and students, including debaters.

Several small soundproof cubicles, when equipped with tape recorders, will make possible multiple student practice.

The fine arts center will provide enlarged opportunities for students at Eastern to improve their speech, said Dr. Ross. While the new quarters will not take care of all the special areas of speech as they have been developing at Eastern, the over-all physical situation will be vastly improved.

Winter Enrollment Up

Final winter quarter enrollment of full-time students at Eastern is 2,063, according to Dr. Maurice Manbeck, registrar.

The total includes 1,951 students returning from the fall quarter, 31 first quarter freshmen, 29 transfer students, and 52 former students.

The current enrollment represents a three per cent increase over 1956 winter quarter registration.

Perry Is Deputy Commander Of SAC All-Jet B-52 Wing

Colonel Edward A. Perry, formerly of Charleston, has been named deputy commander of the 92nd Bomb Wing of the Strategic Air Command. The all-jet B-52 wing is based at McCord Air Force Base, Spokane, Wash.

Perry attended Eastern from 1937 through 1939 and enlisted in the Army Air Corps in 1940. He received a B.S. degree in chemistry from the University of Illinois in 1949.

In World War II, Col. Perry received the Air Medal, the Legion of Merit, and the Purple Heart, in addition to other citations for combat flying. He has been on active duty since 1940.

Col. and Mrs. Perry (Ellen Henkel, '42) have four children.

Local Lincoln-Douglas Debate Topic of Coleman Publication

The Lincoln-Douglas debate at Charleston on September 18, 1858, is the subject of a bulletin just published by Eastern. Author of the publication is Dr. Charles H. Coleman, professor of social science and a well-known Lincoln scholar.

Primarily concerned with the debate itself, the bulletin summarizes events leading up to the debate and includes a description of the Illinois Political Campaign of 1858. The personalities of Lincoln and Douglas are discussed and their friends in the Charleston area are described.

Featured in the publication is the text of the Charleston debate, with notes. The bulletin contains illustrations of Lincoln and Douglas and a reproduction of a painting of the speakers platform. Coleman closes the work with a political chronology for the period between 1854 and 1858.

Communications

A new telephone switchboard, complete with 96 extensions covering all departments and offices on the Eastern campus, was put into use in September. The operator is Evelyn Jasper.

Alter Is Campus Coordinator Of Student Religious Groups

Dr. Donald Alter, professor of social science at Eastern, has been appointed administrative coordinator for religious societies on the campus. Dr. Alter's appointment is part of a program designed to stimulate interest in religious activities among students.

Four religious societies are currently operating on Eastern's campus. These are the Newman Club, representing the Catholic Church, Gamma Delta, representing the Lutheran Church, the Methodist Student Movement, and the Campus Fellowship, an interdenominational organization.

"Our beginning program is two-fold," said Dr. Alter. "First, we should have seven or eight societies, not four. Secondly, each organization should increase its membership."

"To realize these twin objectives," Dr. Alter continued, "there needs to be a clearer recognition of the need for religious understanding among Eastern students."

1958 Summer Session

Opening date of the 1958 eight-week summer session at Eastern has been set as June 16, one week later than originally scheduled. Tentative plans also call for a 12-week summer quarter beginning June 9. Students will be able to earn 12 quarter hours of credit during the eight-week session or 16 quarter hours during the 12-week session.

Dates of the 1958 Summer Music Camp have been announced. The chorus section is June 15-22, with the first week of band meeting June 22-29. The second week of band is slated for June 29-July 6.

Cagers Show New Form After Two Early Losses

Coach Bob Carey's up-and-coming basketball team was beginning to show the form that carried it to fourth place in the 1957 NAIA national tournament as The Eastern Alumnus went to press.

The Panther cagers dropped their first two games, losing to Indiana Central, 76-61, and Anderson College, 95-82, both losses coming on the road. Two straight wins have evened the season record, however, with the first victory coming at Illinois

Dennis Kirby

Howard Long

Wesleyan, where the Panthers captured an 82-70 decision.

In their most recent outing, Coach Carey's charges made their best showing to date by outpointing a capable Quincy College five, 87-80, at Antz Gymnasium. Quincy had previously defeated Kirksville, Mo., and St. Thomas, Minn., and had lost a nip-and-tuck 61-60 affair to defending Interstate Conference champion Western Illinois.

John Milholland, probable one of the nation's most proficient out-court shooting artists, paces the squad in scoring, having netted 92 points in four games for an average of 23 points per game.

The six-foot senior from Westville got off to a slow start with only eight points in the Indiana Central opener, but he counted for 28 against Anderson, 30 against Illinois Wesleyan, and 26 in the Quincy game.

Frank Wolf, a 6-1 senior from Westville, is back at the other guard position. Wolf, the Panther free throw artist, also demonstrated his scoring ability in the Quincy contest, matching Milholland's 26 points.

Carey has three capable performers alternating at the forward positions. They are Jerry Hise, a 6-2 junior from Decatur and a regular last season; Howard Long, a 6-3 sophomore from Taylorville and a transfer from Dubuque University; and B. J. Smith, a 6-3 junior from Gillespie and a varsity reserve last season. All three of the forwards are strong rebounders and have given the Panthers new scoring power up front.

Jim Maguire, 6-7 sophomore from Decatur and a transfer from Iowa State, and Ken Christiansen, 6-2 junior from Rossville, are dividing the center chores, replacing the ineligible Charles Session.

Injuries Plague Harriers; Five Earn Letters

Plagued by injuries and the flu in the closing weeks of the season Eastern's cross country team was unable to cash in its highly successful dual-meet campaign for blue chips in the state and Interstate Conference meets.

Coach Maynard O'Brien's harriers won five of six dual meets, losing only to Northern by a slender 27-28 margin at DeKalb. Victories came over Wheaton, Bradley, Illinois Normal, Southern and Western.

Michael Harvey, captain of the 1957 squad and a senior, paced the Panthers through the dual-meet portion of the schedule; but a leg injury near the close of the season added a substantial number of points to the Panther's state and league meet totals.

Rawlan Lillard, sophomore from Danville, placed second in the state meet as Northern captured team honors. The Huskies from DeKalb also ran off with the conference title a week later.

Two freshman, Don Thomas from Carlinville and Ben Butler from Charleston, were first across the line for Eastern in the loop contest, finishing eighth and ninth.

Lettermen for the season were Butler, Lillard, Thomas, Richard Storm of Mattoon, and Richard Kragler of Mattoon.

Wrestlers Schedule 13 Meets

Thirteen meets have been scheduled for Eastern's wrestling team, according to Coach Harold Pinther.

The Panther grapplers saw their first action of the season December 7 in the annual invitational tournament at the University of Illinois.

Three lettermen, headed by Warner Semetis, defending Interstate Conference champion in the 123-pound division, will form the nucleus of Coach Pinther's 1957-58 squad. Semetis, a sophomore from Orland Park, won his division championship at the Illinois meet.

Other lettermen back are Dave Decker, senior heavyweight from Champaign, and Jim Richards, sophomore from Oak Lawn and a 147-pounder.

Panther Gridders Go Winless; Myers First in IIAC Passing

Eastern's football Panthers, mostly an aggregation of freshmen and sophomores, went winless through eight games, the first time since 1941 that a Blue and Gray squad has failed to win a single game.

Coach Ralph Kohl's squad gave its top performance of the season at Homecoming, stubbornly conceding a 21-13 decision to Western Illinois.

Verlon Myers, sophomore from Charleston, led the team in total offense, accounting for 400 yards by passing and 114 by rushing. Myers also topped the Interstate Conference in pass completions, making good on 24 of 78 attempts for 400 yards and two touchdowns. He was second in total offense with 514 yards.

Eastern had three pass receivers among the top ten in the league, with Jon Ware, senior from Tuscola, catching eight; Norm Bomkamp, sophomore from Carlinville, six; and Ken Calhoun, freshman from Plymouth, Mich., five.

Voted most-valuable by their teammates were John Keiser, senior guard from Mt. Olive, and Mike Phillips, freshman guard from Springfield.

Letter From Alumni President

Dear Eastern Alumnus:

Frankly, this letter is written for the sole purpose of attempting to speed up contributions on the Student Union Drive at Eastern. As an interested party, you are entitled to information concerning this Drive, which is:

1. Progress Report:

|--|--------------------|
| 145 Faculty pledges totalling | $15,500.00 |
| 100 Alumni pledges totalling | 3,303.00 |
| 16 Charleston Community pledges | 4,807.00 |
| Unsolicited friends out of Charleston who are not Alumni | 1,000.00 |
| Total to date | $24,610.00 |

2. How and Why is the Union being built?

- a. How: Only by the sale of building bonds to be paid by income from the use of the building and its facilities and by the students. The students of Eastern voted to add $9 per quarter to their school fees to be used to retire the bonds.
- b. Why: To provide the student with more adequate cafeteria facilities, a snack bar, a large conference and convention hall, which can also be used as a ballroom or banquet room and recreational rooms and other facilities. This building will also be available for use by groups other than students and will provide a headquarters and dining facilities for returning alumni.

3. What is the hurry?

The contract for the building has been let and construction is started! The bonds were necessarily sold at a discount because the bond market had broken so badly and therefore, the full amount from their sale was not realized. The construction contract was let with an "if and when" clause covering air-conditioning. If we could raise the money or pledges for the money, the air-conditioning would be included at the contract price. This clause can now be cancelled by the contractor upon a thirty-day notice. SO — WE NEED HELP NOW!

4. Conclusion:

For 57 years, Eastern has taken care of herself. We have never before had an opportunity to help her in any way. She needs us now. As Eastern grows in stature, so does the value of our diplomas grow. I know you are as interested in our School as I am and that you want to help. Please give as generously as you can and as quickly as you can. May we have your pledge soon? Remember, you have 3 years to pay.

If you have a question, please write to me and I will do my best to answer it.

Cordially yours,

H. Ogden Brainard

H. Ogden Brainard, '25
